ABOUT

Just a short jaunt from Naples, the Amalfi Coast is a gorgeous destination on the southwestern coast of Italy. It runs for about 25 miles (40 kilometers), starting in the famous town of Positano and ending in the small village of Vietri Sul Mare. The drive from Naples to Amalfi, although quite a scenic route, involves hairpin bends and zigzag turns on the cliff edges while the altitude makes your ears pop. Notwithstanding, the landscape comprised of limestone cliffs and coves cut into the coastline make for a memorable road trip. The coast is a cornucopia of whitewashed villages, lemon groves, and glittering water. This part of Italy is an evergreen setting for films, still photos, and postcards.

Known for its understated sophistication and timeless beauty, the Amalfi Coast is a divine place that has escaped modernization, retaining its historic palazzos and lush gardens, simple pastel-hued fishing villages, pristine beaches, and rocky shorelines. The vertiginous and craggy coast, with its towns hemmed by high mountains and three island outposts of Capri, Ischia, and Procida, has kept its evergreen appeal since Roman times. Coastal breezes, fragrant lemon trees, and candy-colored houses perched on cliff sides overlooking cerulean seas separate the stunning Amalfi Coast from the rest. It's a place to explore at your own pace, taking time to soak in the landscapes, indulge in the unbeatable cuisine, and truly enjoy life to the fullest. A trip here will be a scenic, artistic and culinary delight. Take Steve Coogan and Rob Brydon's advice in Michael Winterbottom's A Trip to Italy, (moving) pictures speak louder than words; then again, lived experiences make for priceless treasure!

AREAS

The Amalfi Coast extends geographically from Punta Campanella on the southern edge of the Sorrentine Peninsula to the town of Vietri sul Mare. Along the coast, there are 13 different picturesque villages to discover. It takes about 90 minutes to drive from one end of the coastline to the other if you don't stop to visit the towns or snap photos along the way. These towns and villages include: Amalfi, Atrani, Cetara, Conca dei Marini, Furore, Maiori, Minori, Positano, Praiano, Ravello, Scala, Tramonti and Vietri sul Mare. The area around Sorrento and the Islands of Campania: Ischia, Procida, and Capri the latter of which is the most famous, can be considered as "a wider area" of the Amalfi Coast, although geographically they are not. In our guide we will mention the most prestigious and wondrous areas: Sorrento, Capri, and coastal towns like Positano, Praiano, Ravello, Amalfi, Nerano, Massa Lubrense, Conca dei Marini and Vietri sul Mare.

SORRENTO

Sorrento is a town of lemons, high-pedigree hotels, and plunging cliffs that cut through the heart of its historic core. Tourism has a long history here: Sorrento was a compulsory stop on the 19th century “Grand Tour” – interest in the town having first been sparked by the poet Byron. A long line of vacationing literary geniuses followed in his footsteps to take the warm Sorrentine air. You can still feel the romance.

MASSA LUBRENSE

Massa Lubrense, a small town, is at the tip of the Sorrento Peninsula and occupies one of the most evocative geographical locations in Italy. It has a population of just under fourteen thousand, and its pretty town center is dominated by the Santa Maria delle Grazie Cathedral. This picturesque spot is characterized by the pretty church with its colorful cupola and a fishing port known as Marina della Lobra with its small selection of shops, bars, and restaurants.

CAPRI

A visit to Capri is a must for its timeless and beautiful luxury. Steep cliffs rise majestically from an incredibly blue sea; elegant villas drip with wisteria and bougainvillea, and even the trees seem to be carefully manicured. Long a preserve for celebrities and the super-rich, this small, precipitous island off the west end of the Sorrento Peninsula has a tangibly deluxe feel.

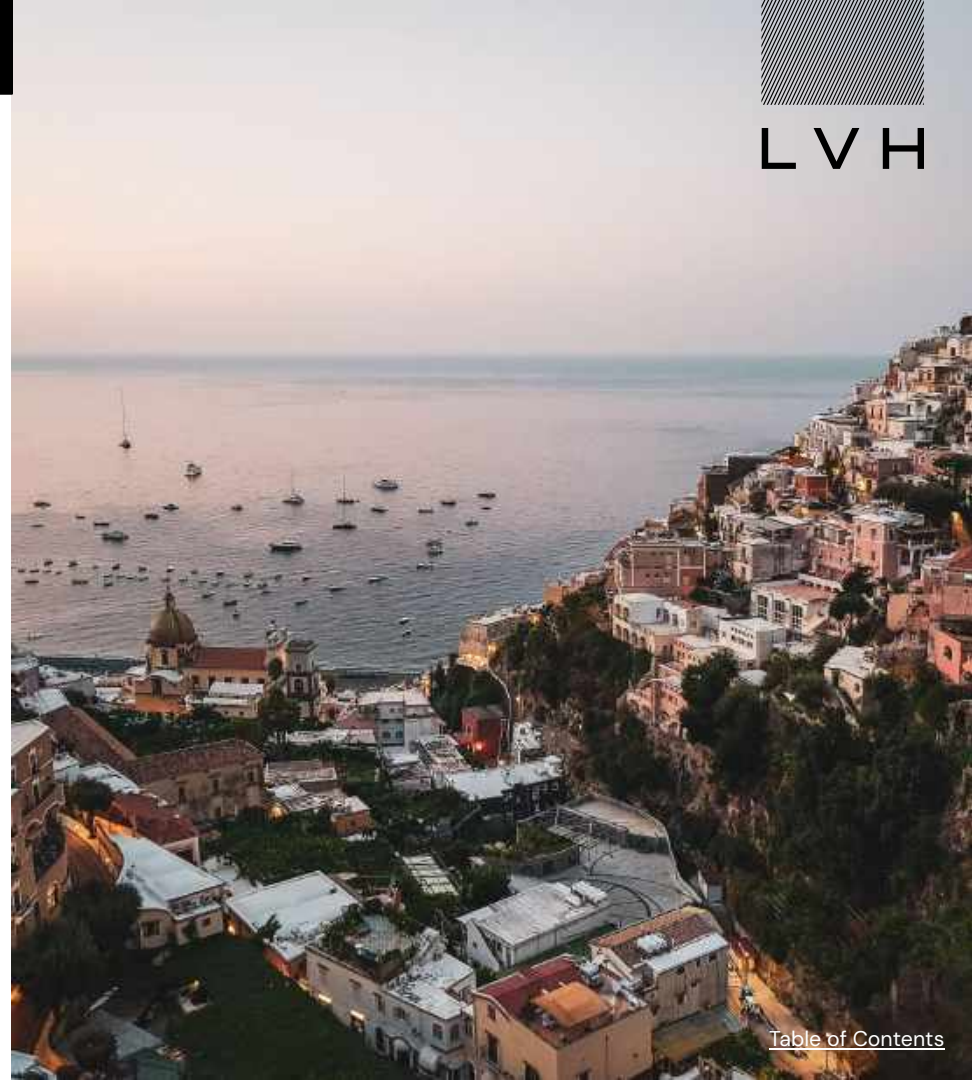

NERANO

The delightful fishing village of Nerano is yet another slice of paradise on the Amalfi Coast famous for its pristine coastline, pretty historic center, and traditional seafood restaurants. The village is said to have acquired its name after the emperor Tiberius Nerone who built a summer residence here. As during the height of the Roman Empire, Nerano continues to attract well-heeled holidaymakers with its beautiful little beaches and secluded coves. Nerano's beach faces onto the bay of Marina del Cantone, the rocky seabed and transparent waters making it a well-established favorite with scuba divers.

POSITANO

Dramatic, deluxe, and quite dashing, Positano is Amalfi Coast's front-cover splash, with vertiginous houses tumbling down to the sea in a cascade of sun-bleached peach, pink, and terracotta. No less photo-worthy are its steep streets and steps, flanked by wisteria-draped hotels, smart restaurants, and fashionable retailers. It's one of the few towns on the Amalfi Coast known for its upscale shopping. The town is bursting with life – especially nightlife – centered around the town's glamorous seaside bars, restaurants, and clubs. John Steinbeck wrote this about Positano in an article from 1953, "Positano bites deep. It is a dream place that isn't quite real when you are there and becomes beckoningly real after you have gone."

CONCA DEI MARINI

This is one of the smallest villages in Italy (just more than 600 inhabitants) yet very proud of its history. Conca dei Marini is less known than its nearby neighbors of Amalfi, Ravello and Positano. Conca dei Marini still has the old charm of a fishing village and identity with a double soul, of land (cultivation of lemons and cherry tomatoes) and sea (the “tonnara,” the traditional fishing system for catching tuna, active until 1956), which fortunately continues to renew itself. The village stretches along a small bay overlooked by the Torre Saracena – a watch tower built in 1563 to prevent probable Saracen pirates. There are several places worth a visit, including the beach of Marina di Conca, at the end of 300 steps, and above all, the Emerald Grotto (Grotta dello Smeraldo), a sea ravine, the marvelous karst cavity discovered in the 1930s by a local fisherman.

PRAIANO

From its beautiful whitewashed architecture to its friendly locals, there are many reasons to love charming Praiano. The town is divided into two hamlets: Vettica, the upper part, and Marina di Praiano, close to the sea. There are also two beaches: Gavitella and Marina di Praia. Despite their small size, these are exclusive beaches, offering a variety of restaurants specializing in fresh seafood and delectable Campana cuisine. The view and the sunset complete the idyll. Praiano is famous for its unobstructed and far-reaching views and its fiery sunsets, almost always with Capri clearly visible in the background. It is the ideal location for a romantic holiday with the right mix of privacy and social life.

AMALFI

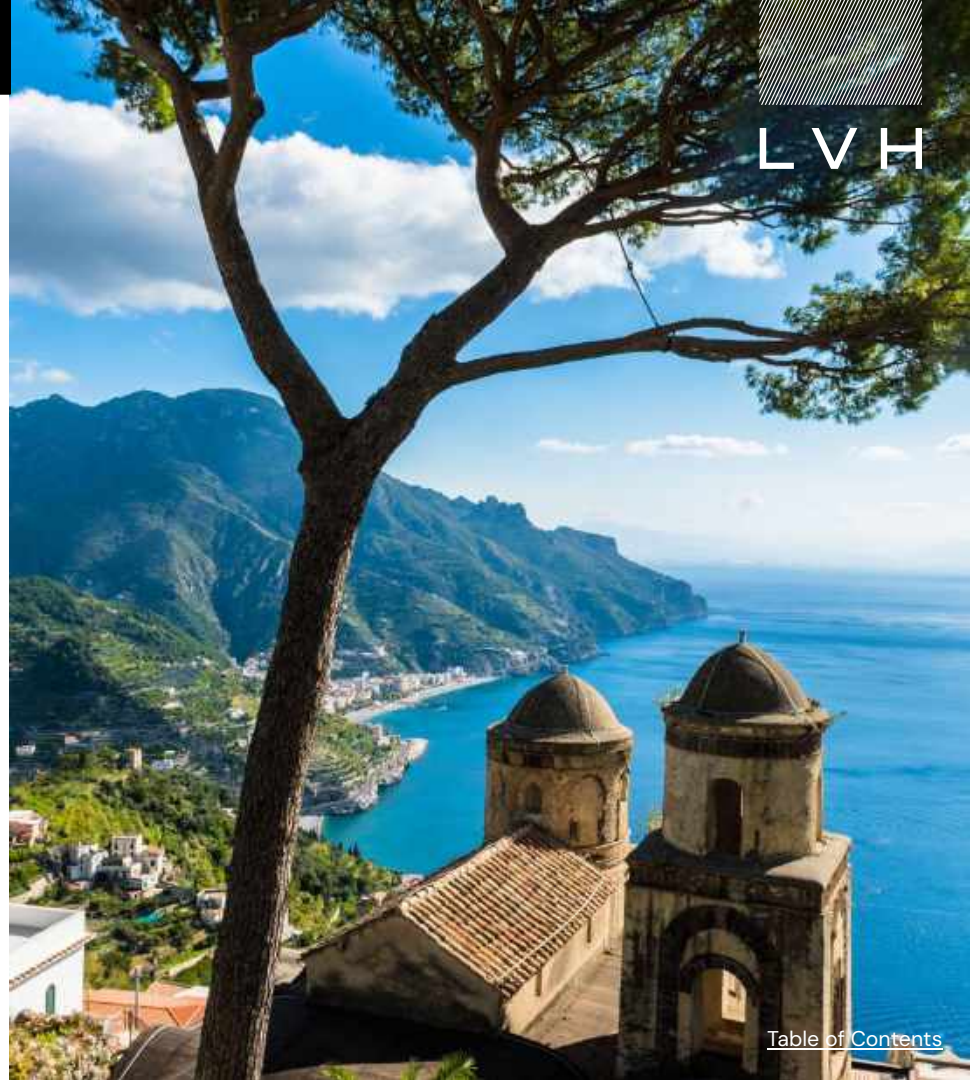

Amalfi is one of the most important places on the Amalfi Coast, with a glorious history. Together with Pisa, Genoa, and Venice, it was one of the Maritime Republics that made the history of the Mediterranean sea, reaching 70,000 inhabitants compared to the current 5,000. Numerous traces remain of the greatness of Amalfi: from the Arsenale, the shipyard where the boats of the fleet were built, to the Regatta of the Maritime Republics, which takes place every four years. Remember to visit the Cathedral of Sant'Andrea, as well as the Paper Museum. The latter is housed inside one of the mills formerly used to process paper.

RAVELLO

A hilltop garden paradise, Ravello was founded in the 5th century as a sanctuary from barbarian invaders ransacking Rome. This coastal town was built, in contrast to other Amalfi settlements, at the top of a hill rather than down on the coast. It's second only to Positano in its style and glamour. It cured Richard Wagner's writer's block, provided inspiration for D.H. Lawrence as he nurtured the plot of Lady Chatterley's Lover, and impressed American writer Gore Vidal who became an honorary local. Ravello's refinement is exemplified in the town's polished main piazza, where debonair diners relax under the canopies of al fresco cafes. It's also reflected in its lush villas, manicured gardens, and one of Italy's finest music festivals. Ravello has a metamorphic effect on people.

VIETRI SUL MARE

Vietri sul Mare was declared a Unesco World Heritage site in 1997 and visiting it makes a unique experience. Its breathtaking views and ceramics (a symbol of this territory) make this town a real jewel. Its historic center is a magical place where pottery plays a starring role. The main street, Corso Umberto I, spreads along the whole town, including the two belvederes which boast wonderful views. Get lost among the colors of the pottery shops and enjoy the beautiful Vietri ceramics: dishes, vases, and various decorative objects done in brilliant colors handcrafted with passion and dedication by local artisans. The ceramic donkey is one of the symbols of the Vietri pottery since, in the past, the animal was essential to get around the narrow streets of the Amalfi Coast.

FURORE FJORD AND THE FURORE BEACH

Furore, known for its magnificent fjord, has a small ideal beach for late risers who like to arrive at the beach at lunch time, because the it is sunlit only during a few afternoon hours. Furore beach is among the most charming and photographed places of the Amalfi Coast, and can be reached by sea or down the steep stairways from the SS163 state road coming down to the sea.

ATRANI BEACH

Atrani is a medieval village close to Amalfi, which is a four-minute stroll along the corniche overlooking the sea. The secret of this little town lies in its characteristic Piazza Umberto I, a rendezvous for people of different cultures who have chosen the Amalfi Coast for a relaxing and pleasant holiday.

CASTIGLIONE BEACH

Castiglione is in the town of Ravello – a small and lovely sandy beach about 100 meters long, surrounded on three sides by a steep cliff. The beach is one of the most charming on the Amalfi Coast, and one of the most popular travel destinations known for its intimate, majestic sun-kissed shoreline and gorgeous villas. Rocks and cliffs surround it, though, so it does get shady toward the afternoon, but its location also provides beachgoers with more privacy. Despite its popularity, this beach doesn't get as crowded as some of the others.

CAVALLO MORTO BEACH IN MAIORI

Set on a steep cliff overlooking the sea, Cavallo Morto beach is one of the many beaches of Maiori and is perhaps the most beautiful beach on the Amalfi Coast. This smaller “wild” beach, translated to “Beach of the Dead Horse,” is between Erchie and Maiori. Reachable only by boat or kayak, this white sandy beach is a little oasis. In fact, thanks to the crystal clear and deep blue sea, it is suitable for those who love to snorkel. However, it is also wonderful for swimming and sunbathing.

CAUCO BEACH IN ERCHIE

There are two beaches in Erchie, the main beach of Erchie is about 200 meters long, overlooked by the houses of the small village, while the real highlight is Spiaggia di Cauco or Cauco beach located between Torre Cerniola and Torre Tummolo. The wonderful Erchie beach has crystal clear water and is surrounded by sheer cliffs; for this reason, Cauco beach is accessible only by sea.

SHOPPING

SHOPPING

The easy way to know, learn and understand a particular culture is to try their food, speak with locals, and explore their traditional shops and boutiques. There are the top eight things to buy on the Amalfi Coast, and these include handmade clothes (crochet bikini, long and wide dresses, beach shirts, and more) and sandals for which Positano is famous throughout the world, and its fashion as "Moda Positano." Similarly, you can't leave the Amalfi Coast without buying a handmade ceramic souvenir from Vietri. Positano, Amalfi, and Sorrento are the best places to buy typical Campanian liquors – limoncello, meloncello, finochietto, and others. If you want to breathe in the real essence of the Amalfi Coast, you have to try its homemade perfumes, which are reminiscent of lemons, jasmine flowers, and all Mediterranean aromas. Capri is a famous island for many reasons, but one of those is due to its luxury jewelry. Lastly, as the whole of Italy, the coast is likewise dotted with art galleries, so you should not limit yourself only to buying pottery, but also photographic prints, paintings and sculptures inspired by the region.

THE ITALIAN FINE ART GALLERY

The Italian Fine Art Gallery is an exhibition space in the centre of Positano that houses paintings, photographs and sculptures that use innovative materials and techniques, mostly by Italian artists. Beyond the objects themselves, there are also cultural tours that will help you understand the works by illustrating the style, personality and sensibility of the artists who created them. The displays are designed to be an opportunity for study and discussion and to introduce the public to the creative universe of each artist.

LIQUID ART SYSTEM

Liquid art system (LAS) is a commercial contemporary art organisation with galleries in Capri (Italy), Positano (Italy), London (UK), and Istanbul (Turkey). Despite their disparate locations, these galleries share a common goal of promoting and representing contemporary art with a "glocal" philosophy, which highlights the international nature of the art while at the same time maintaining its local context and inspiration. In addition to exhibitions and other events, during which the public can actively participate in the creative process while enjoying a unique and unforgettable cultural experience, LAS aims to promote artistic experimentation in its Lab space, where artists are free to push the envelope of their creativity.

NATURARTE OPEN-AIR MUSEUM | PRAIANO

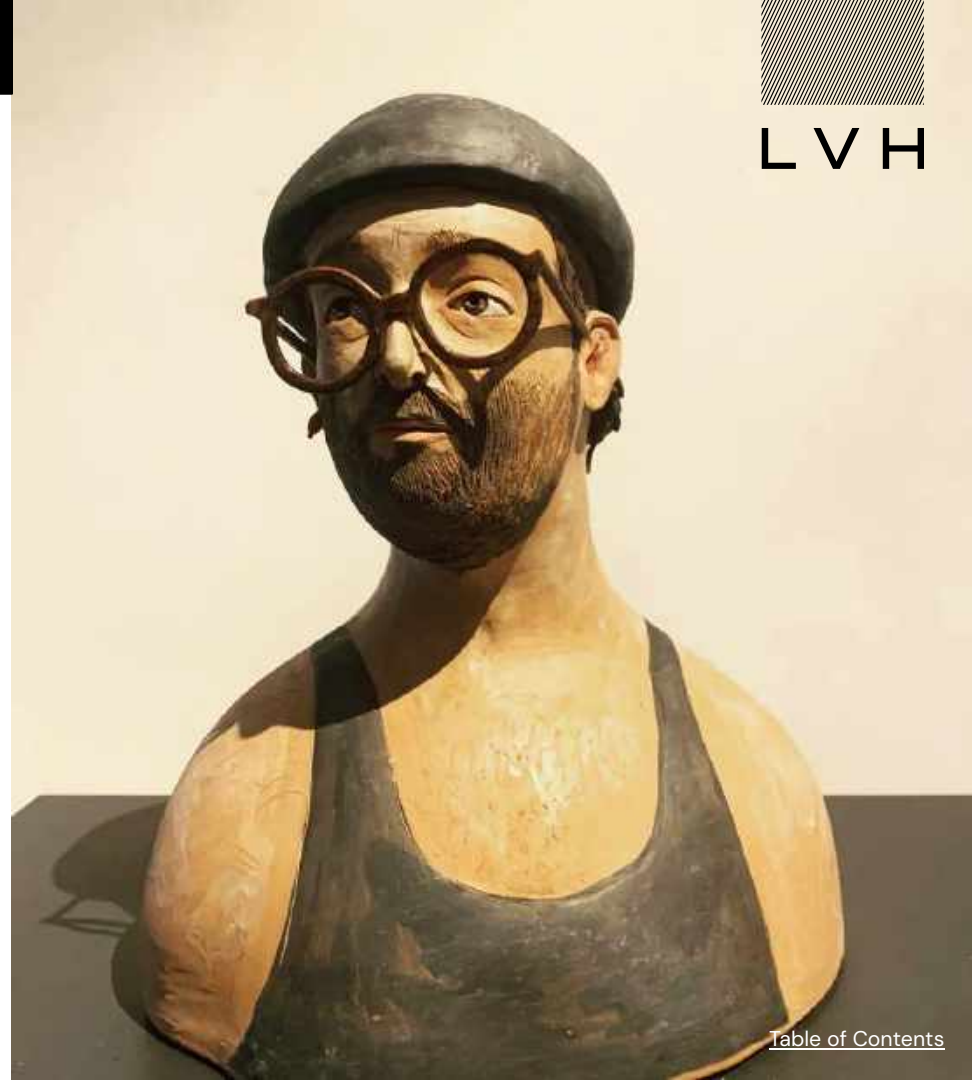

As you walk through Praiano, you'll notice a series of ceramic works of art embedded in the walls lining the paths. These are part of a project called NaturArte, which has turned Praiano into an open-air museum. The idea was to commission works to display along the streets and create an open-air museum you can admire as you stroll through the town. There are eight routes, each one displaying the work of one of the region's leading ceramic artists, each one exploring a theme that tap into the culture and folklore of the Amalfi Coast. Among these are the playful anchovies, octopuses, and other sea creatures of Lucio Liguori and Enzo Caruso's vivid Janare panels – le janare being witches that are said to emerge at night and take possession of fishing boats.

THE ATELIER OF PAOLO SANDULLI

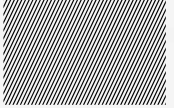

Paolo Sandulli is a painter and a ceramist. His atelier is hidden in the heart of Praiano in the splendid tower of Torre a Mare. It is there that Maestro Sandulli shapes his gracious sponge hair ladies and treasures his deep love for the Coast and the art. Welcome to his world and appreciate his delicate female busts for which he is widely known. They are inspired by the ladies of the Aragonese court sculpted by 15th century Dalmatian artist Francesco Laurana. The Avellino-born artist also paints and sketches landscapes and scenes of local life. A series of portraits of Praiano fishermen, done first in pen and ink and then as a series of terracotta busts, teeter engagingly between character and caricature. Sandulli welcomes visitors to his tower studio; he will be happy to offer you a glass of wine and show you his paintings and his terracotta artworks, some of which, probably, you might not want to part.

LA CARAVELLA ART GALLERY

The ceramics from Vietri sul Mare are unique. An antique and popular art, born for the creation of products in common use. Over the years, it has become enriched by the influence of great artists from all over the world. In this way, a unique type of ceramic has taken shape, one that does not betray its popular origins but renews itself, creating fine objects and is perfectly adaptable to every type of decor. At La Caravella Art Gallery, only the best of the artistic productions of Vietri sul Mare made over the years are being shown.

THE CORAL MUSEUM

The Coral Museum (Museo del Corallo) in the center of Ravello, right near the Duomo, is home to the family collection of an important coral fisherman. The display shows off artefacts of great beauty and reveals the secret of an ancient trade. For more than five centuries, boats set off from ports in the Mediterranean to undertake a unique activity: coral fishing. April, when the crews departed, was a special time for the families and community since the fortunes of an entire year depended on the success of the expeditions. At this museum, you can discover objects and works of art made using this delicate and precious material.

THE SOLIMENE CERAMICS

The structure built in 1954 is the only Italian work of the Turin architect Paolo Soleri, one of the major collaborators at the famous American Frank Lloyd Wright's studio. Becoming a friend of Vincenzo Solimene, or the client, Soleri presented him with a clay model an ambitious project: the Solimene Ceramics building, which over time has become one of the most significant buildings of the century. At a first glance you are struck by surprising aesthetic originality of the Solimene Ceramics. The façade recalls the best works of Gaudí characterized by a series of overturned conical towers, connected to each other by large triangular windows, creating surprising play of light raining inside from above. Once inside, surrounded by majolica motifs and many ceramic works, you will feel like in the world of wonders. The building consists of four floors; on the ground floor the finished products are exhibited and sold, imbued with passion and skill of their authors: original ceramics in bright colors – distinctive and appreciated.

THE CERAMICS MUSEUM

In Vietri sul Mare, the art of ceramics is a time-honored tradition that has transformed the look of the town, coloring its streets with wonderful objects, workshops, and shops. The Ceramics Museum (Museo della Ceramica) in the Raito district is located inside the villa that was once the residence of Raffaele Guariglia, a prominent diplomat, and ambassador in the 1930s and 40s. The museum's collection includes vases, plates, sculptures, everyday objects, and panels with panoramas of the Amalfi Coast. The exhibition route retraces the story of ceramic manufacturing from its origins up to today. There is also a noteworthy collection of riggiolo, the hand-decorated tiles typical of the local area that are used on floors and walls.

PASTICCERIE

Table of Contents

Tiramisu, cannoli, and gelato are a few of the best, most classic Italian desserts you must try while traveling to Italy. However, Italian cuisine is very regional, you'll find different desserts in each of the country's 20 regions. That said, some desserts like tiramisu and gelato have become quite widespread, still the Campania region hides delicious gems which cannot be found elsewhere. In pasticcerie and cafés around Naples and the Amalfi Coast, you definitely need to try Sfogliatella, a flaky pastry shaped like a lobster tail and filled with ricotta scented with citrus peel and cinnamon. The other delicacy is Delizia al Limone, invented in 1978 by pastry chef Carmine Marzuillo, which makes use of the lemons that the area is famous for. It is a dome-shaped sponge cake drenched in limoncello and topped with pale yellow icing. Here is the list of top-rated spots on the coast where you can try these regional delights.

1. La Zagara
2. Bar Santa Rosa
3. Pasticceria Pans
4. Sal De Riso
5. Gambardella

PASTICCERIA LA ZAGARA | POSITANO

The Pasticceria La Zagara in Positano is set in one of the most beautiful locations on the entire coast: if possible, take a seat on the terrace, where you can delight your palate with the excellent Delizia al Limone, and at the same time, enjoy the view all around you. Surrounded by the greenery and the characteristic houses overlooking the sea that make this city famous all around the world, your gourmet stop in this pastry shop will be really difficult to forget. The exceptional dome-shaped dessert here has a lively peculiarity: instead of being decorated with a dot of cream and lemon, it acquires a touch of color, given by a red cherry.

BAR SANTA ROSA | CONCA DEI MARINI

There's always talk of Delizia al Limone, but the Sfogliatella Santa Rosa, is another Campania dessert par excellence that you can taste in Conca dei Marini. It is shell-shaped and a golden in color with a perfect combination of crunchiness (puff pastry) and custard and black cherry filling goodness. Suitable for both breakfast and snacks. While it is no longer possible to buy sfogliatella at the Santa Rosa convent where they were invented (unless you are a guest of the hotel), you can head to Bar Santa Rosa in the morning and enjoy a caffè and sfogliatella. You can also take a box of these delicious pastries to go.

PASTICCERIA PANSA | AMALFI

In Amalfi, you must stop for a Delizia al Limone at the historic and renowned Pasticceria Pansa, it has been the center of attention for more than 180 years, right in one of the most beautiful locations in the world, near the famous Cathedral of Amalfi. Made with a light whipping, lemon cream, lemon paste, and chantilly cream with limoncello, it is covered with a delicious glaze and decorated with fresh whipped cream and grated lemon zest. Besides delizia al limone (lemon cake) the pasticceria makes excellent other Campanian delights, like babà (dough lined with cream) and sfogliatella, with an extra dollop of luscious lemon cream on top.

GAMBARDELLA PASTICCERIA | MINORI

The Gambardella company was founded in 1963 by Francesco Gambardella, head pastry chef of a renowned factory on the Amalfi Coast. He implemented ancient traditions and typical flavors of the Amalfi Coast into the company products, both in the liqueur and in the confectionery field, born from experience. Even today, despite the evolution in processing methods, the artisanal workshop focuses above all on the naturalness of the ingredients and the simplicity of the artisanal production processes.

SAL DE RISO | MINORI

It is the well-known pastry chef Sal De Riso who made famous the Delizia al Limone. For this reason, it is a must-stop at his beautiful pastry shop in Minori, in via Roma 80. The shop is embellished with typical decorations of the Amalfi Coast and blue and white tiles that recall the colors of the clear sky and the beautiful sea. Surrounded by this beauty, you will find an eye-catching display of sweets of every kind; however, Delizia al Limone is a must! In addition, the pastry chef recommends accompanying this dessert with a taste of the renowned Paesaggi limoncello, lemon cream, or a Moscato d'Asti.

When visiting Villa Rufolo, the German composer was so struck by the beauty of the place that he thought he was in Klingsor's magic gardens, the setting of a scene from his opera Parsifal. The festival starts in early April and goes on until the middle of November. The current Ravello Festival is the oldest of the Italian festivals after the Maggio Musicale Fiorentino.

The Festival is organized by the Center of Musical Studies of Washington with Jacopo Naples of Salerno and The Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

NIGHT OF LAMPARE IN CETARA

Cetara, the tiny village on the Amalfi Coast, is known for honoring an ancient fishing tradition. Namely, the Municipality of Cetara promotes the Night of the Lampare, on July 21, an event intended to evoke the tradition of the ancient technique of anchovy fishing with lamparas. The lampara is a powerful lamp mounted on a boat and is used at night to illuminate a vast area of the sea. This is to attract fish to the surface and get them to remain trapped in the fishing nets. You can watch the event from a ferry, admire the scene from the beach, or visit the stands and do some food tasting. Cetara is famous for anchovies, an ingredient that gives local cuisine its characteristic flavor.

POSITANO THEATER FESTIVAL

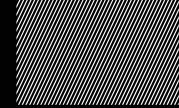

Positano is the perfect stage for suggestive and interesting theatrical exhibitions, so much so that in August one of the most impressive events is organized in this beautiful location – Positano Teatro Festival (Positano Theater Festival). VILLA SAN MICHELE

When he died, the Swedish physician and author Axel Munthe left behind a legacy as a healer as well as a reputation for generosity – he would treat impoverished patients without charge. He would also leave behind Villa San Michele, his home and garden in Anacapri, which has been lauded as one of the most beautiful in Italy. With impressive horticultural knowledge, Munthe filled his gardens with rare and exotic flora. Today, Villa San Michele is a destination for tourists curious to see the idyll Munthe once inhabited.

GARDENS OF AUGUSTUS

A short walk from the center of old town Capri will lead you to a botanical garden you could easily spend the afternoon enjoying. Comprising a series of terraces overlooking the sea, the gardens teem with local vegetation and geraniums, dahlias, and broom flowers. Here, a 180-degree panoramic vista of the island is also available; as is a view of the Faraglioni and a view of the serpentine footpath of Via Krupp.

MONTE SOLARO

Those with a fear of heights might want to skip this recommendation, but otherwise, a trip to Monte Solaro, the highest point of Capri, shouldn't be missed. Take a chair lift – a skimpy open-air vessel that sits one person per lift – from Anacapri, around the corner from the Capri Palace Jumeirah, which will transport you to the incredible views and an old 19th century fort and gardens.

VILLA CIMBRONE AND GARDENS

Perched atop a rocky promontory along the Amalfi Coast, Villa Cimbrone captivates with its 11th century splendor, magnificent sea views, and what are arguably the most romantic gardens in Italy. Villa Cimbrone's appeal certainly extends beyond its function as a hotel and the fact it houses a Michelin-starred restaurant. The glorious romantic gardens of Villa Cimbrone, characterized by the aesthetic concepts of English architects and landscapers of his time, the park features a variety of "episodes" and trails leading off from the Alley of Immensity. The garden of Villa Cimbrone might be the prime contender for the most magnificent views of the Amalfi Coast.

VILLA RONDINAIA

*The Villa La Rondinaia (The Swallow's Nest) is certainly one of the most stunningly original villas on the Amalfi Coast and in Italy. This acclaim is due to many factors; its position, its scenic panoramas and a whole series of silver screen stars, artists and illustrious guests – luminaires of society and dignitaries of every kind. Initially, the property was a part of the Villa Cimbrone, owned by Ernest Beckett, 2nd Baron Grimthorpe. His daughter Lucy had La Rondinaia built around 1930 and began living there. It is built on the edge of a cliff, hence its name "The swallows nest" (rondine means swallow in Italian). It became the focal point for all English visitors to Ravello and latter when it became owned by American writer Gore Vidal, a real "must go to place" for members of the elite "inner circle." Vidal hosted Paul Newman, Mick Jagger, Greta Garbo, Princess Margaret, Bruce Springsteen, Tennessee Williams, Italo Calvino and Hillary Clinton, to name a few. The villa was even one location for the Wes Anderson's 2004 film The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou.*

VILLA RUFOLO

To the south of Ravello's cathedral, a 14th century tower marks the entrance to this villa, famed for its beautiful cascading gardens. Created by a Scotsman, Sir Francis Neville Reid, in 1853, they are truly magnificent, commanding divine panoramic views packed with exotic colors, artistically crumbling towers, and luxurious blooms. Note that the gardens are at their best from May until October. Wagner was so inspired by the gardens when he visited in 1880 that he modeled the garden of Klingsor (the setting for the second act of the opera Parsifal) on them.

CATHEDRAL SANTA MARIA ASSUNTA

Forming the eastern flank of Piazza Duomo, Ravello's cathedral was built in 1086. Since that time, it has undergone various makeovers. The facade dates back to the 16th century, but the central bronze door, one of only about two dozen in the country, dates back to 1179 and it was done by Barisano da Trani, Italian sculptor of the 12th century. The interior is a late 20th century interpretation of what the original must have once looked like.

AUDITORIUM OSCAR NIEMEYER

Located just below the main approach to town, this modern building, which follows the natural slope of the hill, has caused a love-it-or-hate-it controversy in the town. Designed by renowned Brazilian architect Oscar Niemeyer (who designed the Museum of Contemporary Art – The MAC–Niterói, on the coast opposite Rio de Janeiro), it's characterized by the sinuous profile of a wave and approached via a rectangular exterior courtyard, which is typically the site of temporary exhibitions of world-class sculpture. The auditorium is a venue for concerts and exhibitions.

VILLA COMUNALE

The Amalfi Coast is one of kind of imaginarium. Not only should Vietri sul Mare be on your itinerary for its ceramic processing in the shops of the historic center but also for its wonderful Villa Comunale with artwork that resembles Gaudi's Parc Guell in Barcelona and is a true explosion of colors. The Villa Comunale is a colored terrace, decorated with Vietri ceramics, overlooking the intense blue of the Tyrrhenian Sea. In this small corner of the city the walls, the avenues, the fountains and the passageways of the paths above the sea are entirely decorated with Vietri ceramics.

Winding along these "crumbling" cliff sides has been a popular walking route for centuries, and for a good reason. WINE TASTING IN TRAMONTI

Tramonti is the Mountain Paradise above the Amalfi Coast. Set high in the peaks of the Italian Monti Lattari, this town contributed to making mozzarella and pizza famous throughout the world. Tramonti, as its name indicates, is situated amidst the mountains. Set of charming hamlets, surrounded by streams, olive trees, vineyards and terraced vegetable patches, or "gardens" as they are fondly called by those that tend them. Whereas the coastal towns are known for their local lemon groves and limoncello liqueur making, Tramonti has a historic winemaking tradition; and grapevines are grown on steep terraces dug into the slopes of the Lattari Mountains. The Costa d'Amalfi Tramonti DOC wine is produced here, as well as Tenuta San Francesco, among other vintages. At the Tenuta San Francesco, you can take a tour of the historic vineyard and sample wine paired with a number of other local products.

This exciting jet ski rental will allow you to ride the bustling waves of the Tyrrhenian Sea and experience a wonderful sea experience alone or with a companion. The modern jet skis of the Yamaha Waverunner model have the power of 210 hp and they can be ridden only if you have a boat license. You can choose to ride alone or in the company and whiz together on the water. On board this dynamic vehicle, you'll have an opportunity to admire the beauties of the Amalfi Coast.

FLYBOARD

The new craze in motorized water sports is the flyboard or jetpack. This hydro propelling lift machine allows you to hover over water thanks to a flexible piping system located under your feet and connected to the turbine outlet of a jet-ski. Don't miss out on this entertaining beach trend and satisfy your inner child.

STAND-UP PADDLEBOARDING (SUP)

Narrow streets, sunny piazzas, and plenty of pasta and limoncello. That's what most people associate with Italy. But when you explore the Amalfi Coast by SUP you'll discover there are a lot more hidden gems, above and below the water ... secluded coves, turquoise waters, and an abundance of wildlife. Exploring the Amalfi Coast by SUP really is a world away from the busy narrow streets above.

PARASAILING

You don't need special skills to go parasailing. In fact, you don't even need to know how to swim. It does give you a shot of adrenaline and the chance to see Amalfi Coast from a totally different angle. This is a fun activity a family can do since you can choose single, double, triple or quadruple flights.

SCUBA DIVING

An unforgettable experience awaits you while diving in the beautiful surroundings of one of the most famous coasts of Italy, the Amalfi Coast. There are many quiet coves and amazing grottoes along the coasts of Amalfi, Sorrento, and Capri Island. You will be enchanted by the colorful sea and the light games in the deep caves. This is a paradise for snorkelers and swimmers, who can admire the wonderful spots and the environment. Discovering the underwater world at Li Galli Islands, where the emerald green water makes this island so special. Explore one of the gems of the Coastline, the Emerald Grotto (Grotta dello Smeraldo), in the charming bay of Conca dei Marini. Its name comes from the incredible colors that filter from an underground opening and fill the cave with intense nuances of green. The inside of the cavern is filled with stalagmites, stalactites, and strange “works of art” created by time and nature. There is a reason Italy is known as one of the top travel destinations in the world and the scuba diving experience is one of those reasons.

SEASCOOTER & SNORKELING WITH A MARINE BIOLOGIST

Explore the Amalfi Coast's clear blue waters effortlessly using our battery-powered sea scooters and snorkeling equipment. Get more out of your time snorkeling in the sea at Sorrento, led by a marine biologist guide. In a small group, you'll travel to a protected area of the coastline near Punta Campanella, where the waters are rich with marine life. Learn about the rugged shoreline around Sorrento, then step into the water to snorkel amid barracudas, bream, and, if you're lucky, sea turtles and dolphins too. If you want your snorkeling to be a breeze, rely on the sea scooters to help you glide through the water and enjoy the underwater scenery to the fullest.

HELICOPTER RIDE OVER POMPEII & VESUVIUS VOLCANO

Live a luxury experience to enjoy a Pompeii and Mt. Vesuvius tour by helicopter! This is an overfly experience, to have a look above the most famous archeological sites in the world and above the volcano Vesuvius. The Pompeii and Mt. Vesuvius tour by helicopter is created to have also a view of the volcano, which, due to its strength, destroyed other cities such as Herculaneum, Oplontis, and Stabiae. Nowadays, Mt. Vesuvius is a National Park for its rich biodiversity. It is a natural artwork: from the helicopter, you will see the real top of the volcano and its crater. You will admire the summit of Mount Somma (1,133 mt) and, to the right, the cone of Vesuvius (1,281 mt), both separated by a valley called Valley of the Giant. Pompeii and Mt. PARAGLIDING ON THE AMALFI COAST

The spectacular setting of the Amalfi Coast makes paragliding even more unique and suggestive. There are different launch points that allow you to enjoy a view of the most characteristic places of the coast: from Monte Faito to Paestum, until you get to enjoy a view of Vesuvius in Naples. Experience the thrill of admiring the Amalfi Coast from an original perspective. The paraglider is a wing designed to allow the pilot to take off using the thrust of the legs. It is characterized by the launch point along steep slopes such as mountainous ones. It, in fact, takes advantage of wind and height.

VISIT NAPLES

Naples, or Napoli (Italian) is a storied seaside city with the everlasting allure. In recent years tourists have come flocking to this Mediterranean capital watched over by the still-kicking Vesuvius volcano. Especially since the squalor, grabbiness, and poverty the city used to be associated with became a thing of the past. People got more familiar with the city through Elena Ferrante's beloved Neapolitan novels, "My Amazing Friend" et al or gory and gritty "Gomorra" books, which have piqued the curiosity of ardent readers or seasoned travelers. It has evolved from just a stepping stone to Capri, Ischia, and Amalfi, where the art, culture, and social scene are on an optimistic bender, and the charms of Naples, "the Baroque excess, the indulgent cuisine, the mesmerizing fugue state of it all," beckons.

LACRYMA CHRISTI WINE TASTING

Spend your day tasting Lacryma Christi variety wines made from grapes indigenous to the slopes of Mount Vesuvius. The wine has been produced since Ancient Roman times. The first mention of growing this grape variety in the area dates to the 5th century BC and it was brought to Italy by the people of ancient Greece. The vines are rooted in dark and porous lavic soil, which does not need to be irrigated as it naturally retains humidity, releasing it as needed. Appreciate the wine in a beautiful winery, Cantina del Vesuvio, set within the boundaries of the National Park of Mount Vesuvius and overlooking the Bay of Naples and learn how the locals produce Lacryma Christi wines.

EXPLORE POMPEII AND MT. VESUVIUS

Explore Pompeii, one of the best-preserved archaeological sites in the world. In 79 CE, the destructive force of a volcanic eruption buried Pompeii and its inhabitants. An expert archaeologist will take you through these impressive ruins. Then enjoy fantastic views of the most famous volcano in the world as a driver brings you up to the top of Mount Vesuvius. Reach the highest part of the crater on a short 25-minute walk and stand at the massive cavity. Finally, absorb the stunning panoramic view of the Bay of Naples, the islands of Capri and Ischia, and the edge of the Sorrento coast.

ANGEL ZIPLINE IN FURORE

Take a scenic zipline ride across the sky from the gorgeous Furore Fjord and arrive at Conca Dei Marini. Admire the Amalfi Coast landscape from up above as you feel the adrenaline of flying. You'll experience the flight over the Fjord of Furore, the dominant element that characterizes the coastal landscape. It is a deep ravine into the rock, almost a dolomitic landscape, that is in stark contrast with the sea and the long sandy beach. It is an attraction suitable for everyone and requires no physical effort.

WATERSPORTS

Teenagers will brace the opportunity to try their hand at kitesurfing while those over 10 can learn to windsurf, waterski or wakeboard. There is even an opportunity for kids older than eight to learn diving. If nothing else, there are always inflatable toys to raise the adrenaline. Tubing is the most fun and easy towed sport. Have a blast jumping around on the tube. Even adults can't get enough of it.

TAKE A CHAIRLIFT TO MONTE SOLARO

Kids will enjoy the thrill of the ride and the parents will enjoy the stunning views from the summit of Monte Solaro. The chairlift links Anacapri to the top of Monte Solaro and is a small jewel with almost seventy years of history. The breathtaking ascent is about thirteen minutes and makes you feel cradled while you enjoy a 360-degree panorama of Capri, the Gulf of Naples, and the islands of Ischia and Procida while being suspended between the sky and the sea.

BOAT TRIP TO THE BLUE GROTTO

Blue Grotto is a sea cave that is flooded with blue or emerald light. Hop aboard a wooden rowboat, lay back, and let yourself be carried through a tiny stone portal to another world by your able skipper, who navigates seamlessly under the meter-high cave mouth. Inside, pass from complete darkness into a sparkling cavern filled with crystalline blue sea water with silver reflections.

VALLE DELL'IRNO ADVENTURE PARK

Valle dell'irno Adventure Park offers adrenaline-filled time for the whole family. It is set in Monticello Park in the town of Baronissi, around 10 kilometers from Salerno, although it is a but out of the way from Amalfi coast, however if you want to spend a day with a family filled with adventure, crossing rope bridges, navigating pulleys, platforms, suspended cables, lianas, and zip lines, then head to Valle dell'irno. There are two different difficulty levels so everyone can have a great time.

Though it is still a ways away, the airport is the primary gateway to Amalfi, and sees fewer passengers so that the experience is less congested. From the airport to Positano, the transfer time is around 1h45 by car.
