LA ROMANA BEACHES

The top four beaches in La Romana are Playa El Caleton, terrific for families since local vendors sell beverages and fresh seafood right on the beach; Playa Caleta, slightly off the beaten track and preferred by locals. Relax under a beach umbrella and get lost watching the fishing boats on the horizon. Playa La Minitas, mentioned above, and Bayahibe, very close to the heart of Romana. Bayahibe is a blue flag beach where sustainable development is enforced through strict criteria regarding water quality and environmental education

CATALINA ISLAND

A short boat ride is the only thing separating you from getting to know Catalina Island, a six-square-mile paradise in the middle of the Caribbean Sea. Take a day off any day of the week for a supercharged dose of relaxation, beauty, and fun surrounded by white sandy beaches and crystal clear waters.

MINITAS BEACH

Minitas beach, Casa de Campo's private oasis, is the ultimate place to relax. You'll find plenty to do with all the water sports activities available, and you can even sign up for a lesson. The Casa de Campo Hotel offers a complimentary program of children's activities every day on Minitas beach at the Palapa Hut, at the far end of the beach, a hut with a children's play area. The beach is accessible via the Beach Club by Le Cirque or the Coco Bar Mar.

SAONA ISLAND – PALMILLA BEACH

Famous for the natural beauty of its beaches, Saona Island is a popular setting for filmmakers searching for the perfect “deserted island.” Part of the government protected Parque Nacional del Este, the seas around the island are rich in marine life with numerous species of tropical fish. But the real draw is Palmilla beach, essentially a natural offshore sandbar perfect for swimming and snorkeling, and marveling at the numerous starfish found in the waist-deep waters.

With a home in the stunning replica 16th century Mediterranean village of Altos de Chavon, the Regional Museum of Archaeology fits right in even though relics inside go back earlier than the 16th century. The museum focuses on artifacts and artwork from when the Dominican Republic and Haiti were known as Hispaniola. Thousands of pieces from this pre-Columbian era, excavated from the nearby region that borders the Chavon River, are housed here. Many artifacts were left behind by the Tainos, an indigenous group drastically affected by the arrival of Christopher Columbus in the late 1400s, which led to devastation for the population.

ALTOS DE CHAVON – AMPHITHEATRE

Designed like a Grecian amphitheater, this spectacular 5,000-seat open-air facility hosts concerts, and performances from Dominican and international artists. Aside from its 1982 inaugural event with Frank Sinatra live, past performances have included entertainers ranging from Juan Luis Guerra and Shakira, to Sting and Elton John.

AMBER WORLD MUSEUM

All pieces on display, dioramas, audio-visual and interactive technology will transport you back to the origin of amber. Delicate pieces of amber jewelry are available for purchase.
