The harbor is filled with numerous yachts and boats. In the background, the rugged, forested hills of the Alpes-Maritimes region rise against a sky transitioning from deep blue to soft orange and pink. # ABOUT

Monaco, officially the Principality of Monaco, lights up the world with its legendary beauty, dazzling glamor, and authentic style. A visit to this miniature Mediterranean paradise is an invitation to luxuriate in moments of pure delight and an atmosphere of peace, relaxation, and well-being. It is a sovereign city-state – a microstate on the French Riviera whose official language is French. In addition, Monégasque (a dialect of Ligurian), Italian and English are spoken and understood by many residents. The principality is governed under a form of constitutional monarchy, with Prince Albert II of the House of Grimaldi as head of state. The House of Grimaldi has ruled Monaco, with brief interruptions, since 1297. The country's economic development was spurred by the opening of the state's first casino, the Monte Carlo Casino, in the late 19th century and the railway connection to Paris. Since then, Monaco's mild climate, scenery, and gamblers' safe haven have contributed to the principality's status as a prestigious holiday and leisure destination. Spooned by France, Monaco is bathed in fantasies.

Many famous images come to mind at the thought of Monaco – photographer Helmut Newton's images of the Monegasque city, inscribed with models in provocative poses; the royal family's joys and tragedies and Karl Lagerfeld's forays into interior design, plus the many yachts. From prestigious hotels and spas, private beaches, to water sports, cocktails by the sea, shopping sprees and walks through lush gardens, Monaco has everything to guarantee unforgettable moments in a truly magical corner of the world.

You will be dazzled and amazed at each turn, at the heart of the City of Princes. From the old town, a veritable open-air museum, to the Place du Casino, unique in the world – walk, bike, or slow-drive to learn the history of the Grimaldis. There are numerous ways to discover the principality while wandering its streets and breathing in the Mediterranean air. Monaco's modern city has extended its territory by reclaiming land from the sea. Explore the Fontvieille district "arising" from the water, where technology sits side by side with art. Immerse yourself in the heart of the teeming town by browsing around the authentic market of La Condamine or unlocking the charms of the Moneghetti area.

FONTVIEILLE

Fontvieille is a district completely reclaimed from the sea. The principality made use of modern technology to build this area and in return, Monaco chose to accommodate high-tech and non-polluting companies within it. Evening strolls along the water in Monaco are undeniably romantic if you can find just the right streets and corners such as those around Fontvieille Harbor at dusk. It's close enough to the action so you don't feel like you're missing out. And yet, the play of lights and view of Monte Carlo from a slight distance makes it feel extra special.

MONACO-VILLE

Affectionately known in the area as Le Rocher or “The Rock,” Monaco-Ville is the south-central ward built on a headland going into the sea. Although it’s right in the center of Le Rocher, the ward was once a medieval village with a real sense of history about it. The area is full of practically silent streets, as soon as the sun sets that are designed for pedestrian use as only local people are allowed to drive around the area. It’s also illegal to ride a motorbike in Monaco-Ville after 10 p.m. Discover the old town through narrow alleyways from the middle ages leading to the picturesque Place Saint Nicolas and Placette Bosio, the cathedral, a Roman-Byzantine style building built in 1875. You will naturally find your way to the Place du Palais (The Prince’s Palace), where every day at precisely 11:55 a.m., the changing of the guard takes place.

LES MONEGHETTI

Les Moneghetti or Le Jardin Exotique (Exotic Garden) overlooks the principality. This is the district with a garden of the same name. Beautiful buildings such as the Ligures, the Patio Palace and the Harbour Light Palace offer a panoramic view over Monaco and the sea. This ward rises up into the rock, so you'll probably want to turn your camera to this intriguing urban vista. Its hilliness makes it interesting; you get a real sense of your surroundings and the people passing by.

LA CONDAMINE

La Condamine and the port offer you the charm of a shopping district with Rue Grimaldi and its stores, the pedestrian area of Rue Princesse Caroline and the quays at the port with many bars and restaurants. Certain buildings like the Palais Heracles, the Ermanno Palace and the Bristol give you an exceptional view of the Monaco Grand Prix.

MONTE CARLO

Probably the best-known part of Monaco and famous around the world for its casino and its palm-tree-lined streets, Monte Carlo (Spélugues) is the country's official administrative area. It is the principal residential and resort area which includes the mentioned Monte Carlo Casino and Hotel de Paris among other landmarks. The construction of Monte Carlo began in 1870, during the reign of Charles III, and it occupies the old Spelugues plateau. This area contains the largest concentration of stores and features one of the most beautiful shopping centers in Europe.

LARVOTTO

The most north easterly point of Monaco is the Larvotto ward. It borders Roquebrune-Cap-Martin and Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur. It's home to the Grimaldi Forum conference centre on the seafront. Named after Grace Kelly, the Avenue Princesse Grace is found near Larvotto beach and it is home to the stunning Japanese Gardens, a favorite spot to enjoy the afternoon sunshine.

CAP D'AIL

Cap d'Ail stretches along a peaceful part of the coast, at the border with the principality of Monaco. When you arrive, take the road overlooking the coast until you reach the Tete de Chien viewing point from where you will have a superb panorama of Italy and the Var coastline. Cap d'Ail has been listed as a health resort since 1921. The quality of its seawater has earned it the Blue Flag for its three beaches: Marquet beach, the best for families with its yacht club and two restaurants; Mala beach and Pissarelles beach. Cap d'Ail also has a small harbor providing 253 berths. Regattas and sea festivals are organized during the holiday season, attracting many visitors.

BEAUSOLEIL

Beausoleil is a commune in the Alpes-Maritimes department in the Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur region in southeastern France stretching out like an amphitheatre above Monaco. The municipality was created relatively recently (1904), and is renowned for its Belle Epoque architecture. The finest example is the Riviera Palace, a historic monument, including a winter garden built by the Eiffel company, which also erected the covered market with its metal structure. Like a Montmartre of the Riviera, clinging to the slope, Beausoleil has an uninterrupted view of the principality, its casino, skyscrapers and the Mediterranean Sea in the distance. It has innumerable stairways, lined with houses painted in Italian colors, that go through the town, and you'll be able to marvel at the equally innumerable terraces and balconies perched above the Big Blue. It's a rather dizzying view which gives Beausoleil its one-of-a-kind, remarkable style, especially as it also boasts many parks and gardens with fragrances of the south. If you love the Belle Epoque you'll be in heaven at Beausoleil.

EZE

Eze village is one of the most picturesque villages in the department and is a must-visit. Lush vegetation of banana, date, carob, orange and lemon trees testifies to the very pleasant climate most of the year. Perched in an eagle's nest at the top of an imposing and superb cliff, you will see the village and its light ochre church from afar. Once you have crossed the gate, you will discover a small Provencal village full of charm, offering superb panoramas of the sea and the coast. Small cobblestone lanes, vaulted passages, superbly restored stone houses, shaded squares, refreshing old fountains – the scenes change like a theatrical setting making it seem as if it were a mirage. It is that enchantingly beautiful! Many small craft shops might appeal to your curiosity (some look like small caves carved into the rock). Down below the village is the beach of the bay of Eze. It is easy to access on foot by taking the shaded Friedrich-Nietzsche path (at the end of the avenue du Jardin Exotique) descending into the sea. It is said that it was here, under the pines and olive trees, that Nietzsche got inspiration for the last part of his work, Thus Spoke Zarathustra.

From December to March, local gardens were supposed to give the impression of blazing, tropical fauna, an eternal spring.

The Trophée is the pride of the town. Visiting it and the small Auguste museum is a must. A fraction of the tower with its columns and niches where the statues were placed is all that remains today of the grand Trophée d'Auguste, but still imposing, nonetheless. At the foot of the trophée lies the La Turbie village which has preserved the charm of its glorious past in a harmonious mixture of styles – medieval, classical and baroque. You can also hike from Beausoleil up to La Turbie, following in the Romans' footsteps.

WATER

WATER

Seventy-one percent of the earth is water, yet most of this magical world remains a mystery. There are such meditative and tranquil effects of being next to a body of water. Whether you're on a path of rejuvenation or looking for adrenaline-pumping recreation, the sea's infinite expanse is a frontier well-worth the plunge! Parasailing beneath the cliffs of Monaco; racing on a jetski around the superyachts anchored in the bay; wakeboarding beneath 'The Rock' with the royal palace sitting high above: there are few more jaw-dropping places to indulge in a day of watersports than in the glittering principality of Monaco.

WINDSURF & KITESURF

The cliffs of Monaco aren't considered an ideal spot for wind sports. The closest spot for ideal wind sports on the water is at Saint Laurent du Var just east of Nice. For very good conditions, head to Almanarre. It is believed to be one of the best spots and, unlike most Riviera beaches, there are no restrictions on wind sports there in the summer.

WATER SKI & WAKEBOARD

The best time for these sports is early in the morning before the sea breezes pick up and ruffle the water. You can arrange waterskiing and wakeboarding activities at Larvotto Beach, Meridien Beach Plaza and Monte Carlo Beach Hotel.

WATER

LVH

FLITEBOARD EFOIL

A fliteboard efoil is an electric-driven, fast, agile and silent hydrofoil that gives the sensation of flying over water. You won't ever forget your first time foiling. Anyone can learn, yet fliteboard is engaging for even the most experienced water sports aficionados.

1. The Museum of Prehistoric Anthropology
2. The Zoological Gardens of Monaco

MUSEUM OF PREHISTORIC ANTHROPOLOGY

The Museum of Prehistoric Anthropology was founded by Prince Albert I in 1902 "to conserve traces of early humankind exhumed in the Principality and neighboring regions." The numerous collections represent various phases of regional prehistory and protohistory. As a research institute, the museum continues to conduct field digs and carry out laboratory studies. The exceptional example of this is the mammoth skeleton (mammuthus primigenius) excavated in Siberia and conserved for scientific purposes and for exhibition, which has been on display since 2014.

THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS OF MONACO

Located on the southern flank of the Rocher, the Zoological Gardens of Monaco were established in 1954 by Prince Rainier III and are one of the last remaining royal menageries in the world. During your visit, you will be immersed in an almost wild environment right in the heart of the modern Principality of Monaco. They are home to nearly 250 animals representing about 50 species: exotic birds, turtles, caimans, hippopotamuses, reptiles, primates and farm animals. Monaco's Zoological Gardens is unique because its animals were all donated, abandoned or seized by customs. When the park's facilities deem it is no longer possible to guarantee good living conditions, the animals are transferred to more appropriate zoos.

BY CAR

Monaco is easily accessed over its land borders from France or Italy by a network of highways. However, what we recommend is taking more picturesque routes. Between Nice and Monaco, there are three scenic roads:

- Basse Corniche (Low Coast-Road – Highway 98), along the sea,
- Moyenne Corniche (Middle Coast Road – Highway 7), going through Eze-Village, and
- Grande Corniche (Great Coast Road), going through La Turbie and Col d'Eze (Eze Pass) – made famous by Cary Grant and Grace Kelly in Hitchcock's To Catch a Thief.

All three are pretty drives offering spectacular views over the Coastline. Treat yourself to one of the supercars and take in the French Riviera in style.
