AREAS

Table of Contents

Punta del Este is an exclusive resort on the southern coast of Uruguay, one of the most appreciated tourist sites in South America. There is a reason it is also known as the South Miami, the Latin Ibiza or the American Saint-Tropez. All of Punta del Este is beautiful, however, the following areas are particularly popular among locals and visitors alike.

AREAS

LVH

1. The Peninsula
2. La Barra
3. Manantiales
4. El Chorro
5. José Ignacio

THE PENINSULA

The peninsula boasts many places of interest, the Punta del Este Port, which has become a popular nightlife spot, with many different restaurants serving mainly seafood. The port is also an essential visit if you want to see sea lions, and the Playa de Los Ingleses, which is Punta del Este's most southern beach joining the river with the ocean. Explore different galleries and craft markets, enjoy classic cafés, pizzerias, and pubs or watch the sun go down from the pier bandstand. Its streets, unlike the rest of the resort, are numbered from one to 31, even though each street also has a name relating to sailing or to the marine world.

EL CHORRO

El Chorro is a resort area in southeastern Uruguay right on the shores of the Atlantic Ocean. Beautiful beaches and exquisite sunsets beckon travelers from far and wide. Bikini Beach is a popular area for watersports and relaxing in the sun. For a small area, visitors will find lots to do and sights to see, like the 19th century Punta del Este lighthouse with its sweeping views and incredible maritime history. This tranquil area is the ideal respite for luxury vacationers looking to reconnect with nature, unwind and breathe for a while.

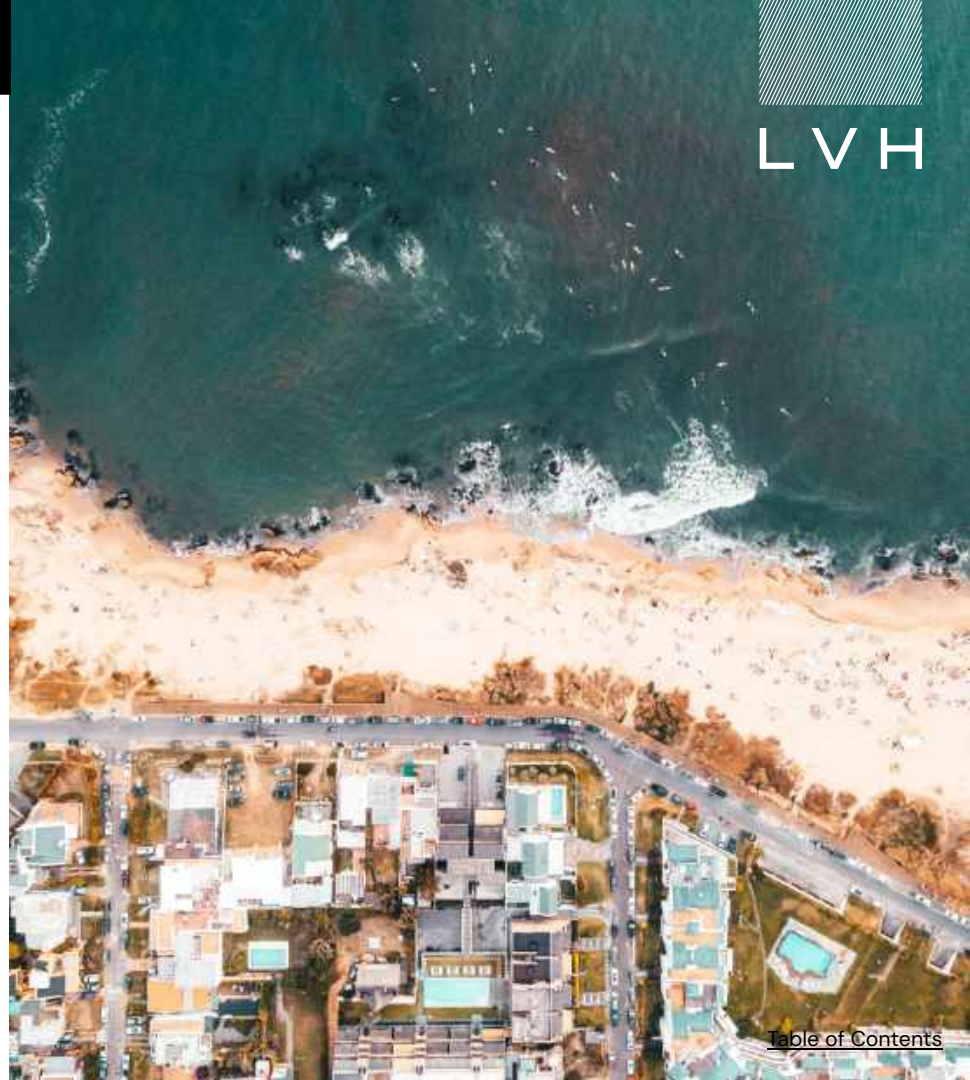

LA BARRA

This resort community is a haven for artistic, Bohemian types. Just outside the city core, La Barra is on an estuary of the Atlantic Ocean that provides long, sandy beaches offering terrific surfing. Quaint houses light up the coastline with their pastel hues. This community is known for its hip hangouts, art galleries, cool architecture (including a “wavy” bridge), and laid-back elegance. It’s the place for luxury travelers who want to put down vacation roots in one of the most beautiful maritime landscapes in Punta del Este.

MANANTIALES

This little, laid-back fishing village turns into an exclusive resort area in the summer. Chic crowds gather at open-air cocktail lounges and nightclubs to party the hours away. Foodies make their ways to Manantiales for its artisanal ice cream and upscale pizza variations. Boho shops sell handmade candles, contemporary art, and unique, cool clothes. It is the place to be seen in Punta del Este, and luxury travelers who want to make a statement should opt for this neighborhood.

JOSE IGNACIO

Punta del Este is upscale and busy, but right outside the main area are places like Jose Ignacio, quiet surf towns just close enough to all the hustle and bustle. Vacationers will find absolute peace and quiet in this area. Coastal towns appeal to many visitors for their relaxed ambiance, sparkling waters, and warm sand. Spend some time at Jose Ignacio lagoon or have a horseback ride along the water at sunset.

The best time to go to a beach club is at the end of the day when entertainment (music, sunset) is guaranteed.

RESTAURANTS

FASANO PUNTA DEL ESTE | ITALIAN

Fasano Punta del Este offers fine dining enthusiasts more than 100 years of tradition and excellence in the best haute cuisine in a relaxed, informal environment. The Fasano family has been one of the most respected names in South American hospitality for more than a century and this hill-top spot boasts all the glitz, glamor and glorious Italian cooking you'd expect from the Brazilian dynasty. Unapologetically nostalgic menus (including homemade pasta) are consistently excellent, but the real draw is the setting. This beautifully designed rocky cabin by Isay Weinfeld perches like an eagle's nest atop one of Uruguay's highest peaks and offers stunning views of the virgin countryside and Maldonado river. Interiors nod to the breezy Brazilian design of the 1950s, but the best seat in the house is on the rattan-clad balcony; if sitting here, bring a jacket as evenings are generally cool.

RESTAURANTS

MARISMO, JOSÉ IGNACIO | INTERNATIONAL

With the sky as your ceiling and sand dunes for a carpet, dine under a starry canopy at Marismo while candles – and the gratitude of your dining companion – light up your dishes. One of the most captivating experiences in Uruguay if not South America, Chef Federico Desseno plays with fire, using a clay oven to knock up succulent empanadas teamed with spicy llajua tomato dip, or the parrilla to grill a whole catch of the day such as lenguado (sole). One unmissable dish is the provoleta, a gooey yet curiously light and chewy variation of the classic grilled provolone cheese. At weekends, catch the outdoor culinary show when Federico cooks under the stars.

RESTAURANTS

BODEGA GARZON | URUGUAYAN

Diners will enjoy the warm, welcoming ambiance and those who are familiar with fine dining know that a restaurant is a place for excellent food and an unforgettable experience, and that is what they will get here. Food and libations are not fancy, yet somehow stay in the memory: a perfectly seared steak drizzled with herbed olive oil; the freshest local fish baked in a salt crust; or a simple, smoky Negroni. Mallmann's cuisine rivals those of the restaurants in the best luxury hotels in Punta del Este.

CATEDRAL DE SAN FERNANDO

This beautiful neoclassical cathedral gives a touch of beauty and charm to the historic center of the city of Maldonado. Construction began in 1801 and was suspended by the English invasions of 1806, which led to the completion of the work taking almost a century. The cathedral consists of a main nave with two bell towers and a central dome. On the sides and at the back of the nave there are two small buildings that complete the set in the shape of a cross. The magnificent main altar is the work of Antonio Veiga, who won two prizes at the continental exhibition held in Buenos Aires in 1882. This stunning piece of local history is worth a visit.

BRAVA BEACH HAND SCULPTURE “LA MANO”

The Fingers of Punta del Este, created by artist Mario Irarrazabal, is a tourist stop. In a rather eerie way, these huge fingers can be seen emerging from the sand. The sculpture has become a symbol for Punta del Este since its completion in February 1982 and has become one of Uruguay's most recognizable landmarks. The artist was inspired to make a sculpture of a hand "drowning" as a warning to swimmers, as the water at La Barra up the beach has rougher waves which are better for surfing only, while the other way, the water at Solanas is much more suited for swimming and windsurfing.
