ABOUT

Punta Mita is a mythic peninsula jutting out from the Northern tip of Banderas Bay spanning 5,000 acres of land. Famously what the terrain lacks in size, it makes up for in exclusivity and concentration of natural beauty. Its remarkable geographic features, luscious tropical foliage, crystalline aquamarine waters, and spectacular beaches have enthralled the world's elite, becoming an ultra-prestigious resort destination. Gated and ultra-luxurious, this private peninsula has become synonymous with Exorbitant multi-million dollar villas and vistas. Punta Mita is home to fifteen coveted communities, two Jack Nicklaus golf courses, a tennis center, and the St. Regis and Four Seasons resort. Distanced at forty-five minutes from Puerto Vallarta airport, Punta Mita's easy accessibility, unparalleled seclusion, and profound natural beauty have skyrocketed the peninsula's popularity in the past four years.

Sharing the same latitude as the Hawaiian islands, the temperature is remarkably stable, embraced by gentle sea breezes, keeping the climate comfortable and temperate. The triangular geography of the peninsula maximizes the coastline, assuring a pristine private and tranquil environment on this one-of-a-kind tropical sanctuary. Punta Mita is a potent distillation of Central America's glorious natural majesty, the lush tropical flora, and soft, white-sand beaches, having inspired some of the world's top architects in recent luxury projects.

All within a 40-minute drive from the advantageously situated Punta Mita, diverse and pristine shorelines abound from Sayulita in the North to Puerto Vallarta in the South. The total 40-mile drive displays a stunning plurality of sands, rock formations, waters, marine and aviary life, traversing through charming Mexican fishing villages along the way. PLAYA LA CAREYEROS

Playa Careyeros is a hidden gem of the region, a north-facing beach at the crest of the Punta Mita and Litibu bay. Difficult accessibility has made this stretch of coastline a well-kept secret for some time, with no amenities apart from the white sand and transparent blue waters. A wild stretch where the sea meets jungle, the sunsets alone are worth some extra preparation.

PLAYA LA LANCHA

The broad and lush Playa la Lancha, a 10 minute drive from Punta Mita is arguably the region's most prominent public beach on account of its stellar surfing reputation. With access to some excellent surf breaks, this northern stretch of Banderas Bay offers waves, when others are other waters are entirely calm. More than a premier surf spot for beginners to pros, La Lancha is secluded and embraced dense foliage, only accessible via a narrow trail through a jungle reserve.

MARIETAS ISLANDS

This remote archipelago is known as the “galapagos” of Mexico, situated five miles Southwest of Punta Mita. A popular destination on account of it’s protected marine and aviary ecosystems, offering incredible secluded beaches amongst complex rock formations. The breathtaking Playa del Amor is encased within an island cavern, only opening up to the sky above. A premier place for snorkeling, whale watching, kayaking or paddleboarding, the Marietas islands provides an unforgettable day trip.

LVH

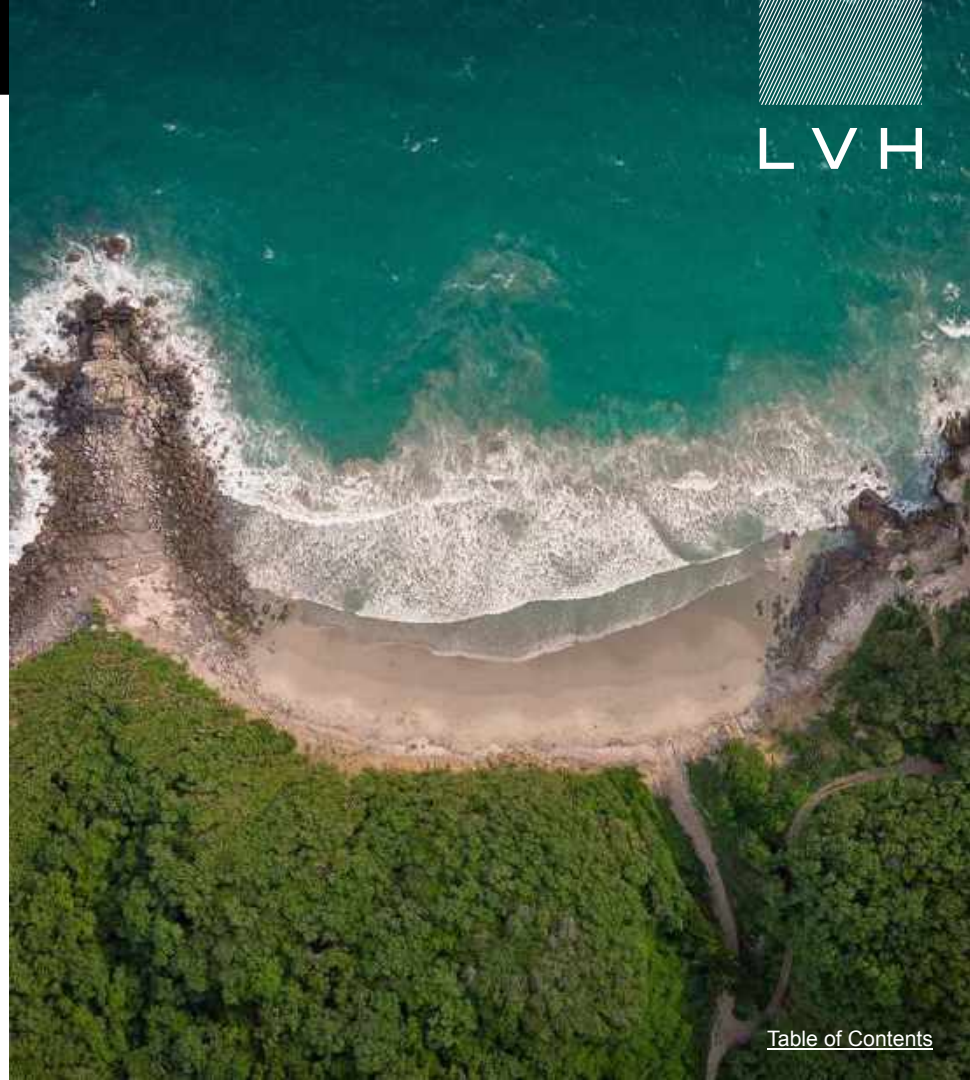

PLAYA DESTILADERAS

Considered one of the more notable stretches of Banderas Bay, stunning panoramic views of the Pacific envelop patrons, with the city of Puerto Vallarta visible on the other side. Situated approximately halfway between La Lancha and Palito Verde, Playa Destiladeras' pristine white sands between the cliffs of Punta del Burro entice. With no undertow and gradual water deepening, this child-friendly beach allows parents to relax fully.

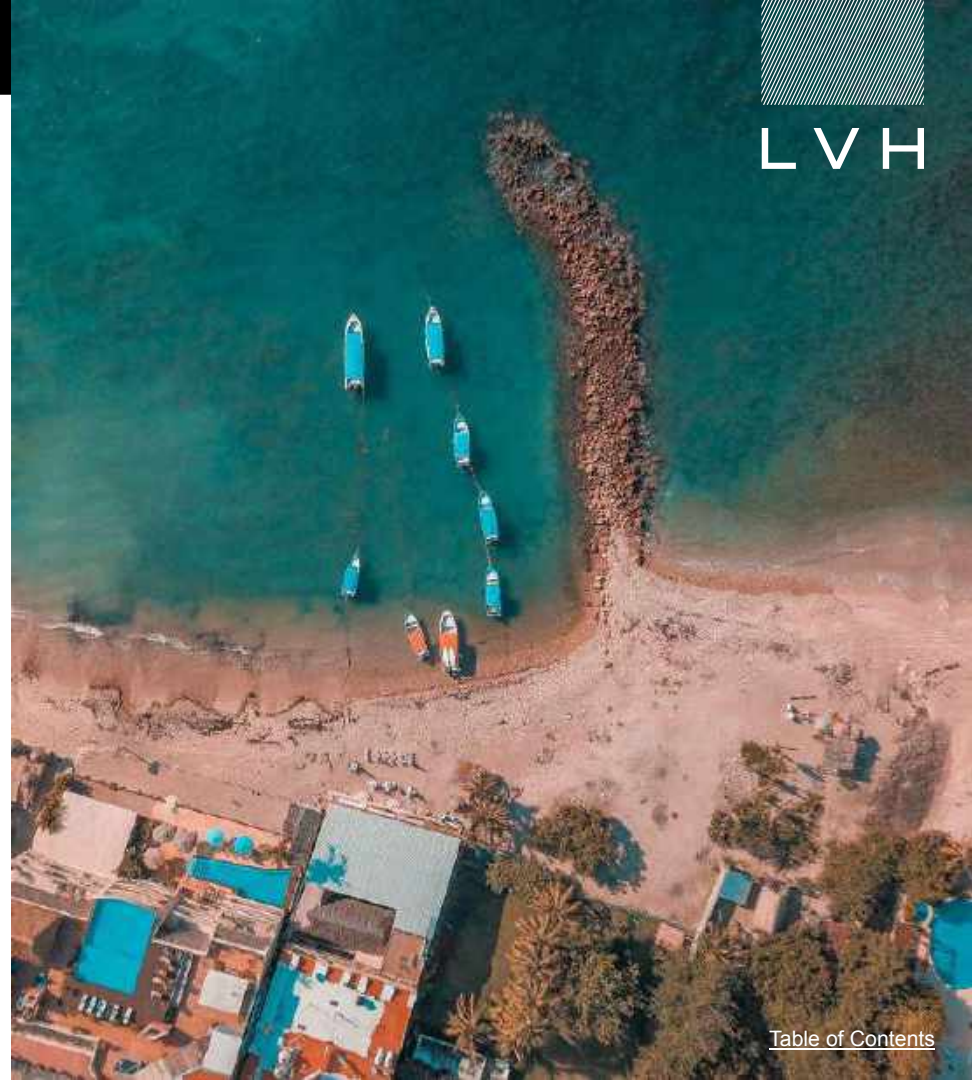

PALITO VERDE BEACH

Just under ten miles from Punta Mita, Palito Verde is a spectacular secluded beach framed by rock formations, making it a cozy and secluded spot. This virgin beach has no amenities, free of distractions; Palito Verde stuns with its natural beauty as an ideal spot for a romantic getaway.

PLAYA EL ANCLOTE

Located just beyond the entry to the private peninsula, Playa Ancloste is an accessible lovely white sand beach, distinct for the water's distinct deep Caribbean blue green hue and pristine white sand, different from other coastlines. A gentle surf makes this beach ultra-versatile, a dream for novice swimmers, casual swimmers, and children. With ultra-soft white sand and stunning views of the San Madre mountains, tide depending, bathers may wade as far as 100 yards with the water only waist deep. From here a panga may be ordered to visit the wonders of the Marietas Island.
